98. (Twice Amended) A method for making financial analysis output having a system-determined purchase price for at least one component from property in consummating a sale [through a financial exchange], the financial analysis output being made by steps including:

converting input data, representing at least one component from property, wherein the property includes a tax-exempt security, into input digital electrical signals representing the input data; providing a digital electrical computer system controlled by a processor electrically connected to receive said input digital electrical signals and electrically connected to an output means; controlling a digital electrical computer processor to manipulate electrical signals to compute a system-determined purchase price for the at least one component from property in consummating a sale and corresponding purchase of the component [through a financial exchange]; and generating the financial analysis output at said output means.

II. REMARKS

Generally, it is believed that the amendment adds no new matter, and the amendment corrects confusion during a telephone interview with the Examiner and a corresponding mistake that was recently discovered. More particularly, as stated in the accompanying Response to Examiner's Reasons for Allowance, wherein at page 2 (dated April 14, 2000), Paragraph 2, the Examiner comments on authorization for an Examiner's Amendment to Claim 98, the authorization was to make the changes in Claim 98 in accordance with changes made in Claim 97. However, the Examiner's comments overlook one of the changes to be made, namely the deletion of the phrase "through a financial
